Parents should agree or come to an agreement about homeschooling before enrolling.

Either legal parent, per birth certificate, regardless of marital status or situation, has right to all school records.

If you have a court document that states otherwise, make sure it is on file with us and brought to our attention so that it is in your account notes.

It is your responsibility to make sure we are aware of the situation.

We do not handle marriage counseling nor are we here to debate the benefits of homeschooling.

We are here to help you homeschool. We can answer any question about homeschool law, high school credits and transcripts, recommend curriculum, and give advice about anything homeschool related. We can tell you why we think homeschooling is a great option, but please do not call the school about your spouse or if you are against homeschooling. That should be taken care of in your home, at church or possibly in court.

We reserve the right to block your phone number from future calls if we feel in any way you violate these terms.

Thank you.
